

Chapter 7.0: Conclusion

This project is fully committed towards providing a high profile development within all planning and environmental norms. It has a far reaching as well as sustainable positive impact on people and society. As stated in this document, its benefit to the country in terms of revenue is immense. It is a project that commits itself to protect the natural environment with reference to endemic, native and rare plants as well as attributes of the water bodies. The promoters therefore request the authority to review this project positively and grant the necessary permits.